MaxView Version 5.8 to Enhance Decision Support and Scalability

DataPath announces the availability of MaxView Version 5.8. This software release provides valued customers with new features as well as performance enhancements. It also provides flexibility and improvements in key reporting tools for operational analysis and decision making.

MaxView 5.8 offers significant ROI benefits and operational improvements to our customers including:

- Enhanced scalability and performance: A re-designed architecture enables customers with thousands of devices and hundreds of sites to reduce operational complexity by having a single view of the network. By eliminating the need for separate proprietary management systems, MaxView minimizes complexity and cost.
- Advanced decision support: A new reporting system enables automatically scheduled and ad hoc reports, so customers can get information they need when they need it. This gives operators and managers a better understanding of the network so they manage and optimize it.
- Ease of application expansion: Enhancements have been made to the driver development kit to allow customization and application creation without engaging a professional services team.

The software and supporting documentation are available for immediate delivery.
